EX-KING MILAN is too young in years to suffer from apoplexy; but he is old enough in experience to have had three strokes.

THE YIELD of corn in Kansas is this year greater than ever before. It seems like gross perversity of matter to have this happen in a prohibition state.

* * *

A PERSON who came suddenly out of a doorway picked himself up and looked dazed. "I dunno what's the matter," he said, "but I must 've had a rear collision."

SOME OF THE JANITORS of this town select physicians for their patrons, and are contemplating a coffin syndicate and positive orders as to where the patrons shall do their worshiping.

WAGES AND KEEP.

MRS. FEENEY—"Hov yez no wur-rk yit, Mr. Murphy?"
MR. MURPHY—"Oi hov frum Monday marnin' fer Mr. Fair. He said he wud give me six dollars a wake an' ate me, or nine dollars a wake an' Oi ate mesilf."

THE FOREIGN ELEMENT.

THE FACT that in one week recently there were more emigrants than immigrants at this port is as gratifying as it is surprising. It is well to be generous, but one can hardly be expected to give away his house and lot and his means to an honest livelihood.

MORE DEPRESSION.

IT WAS CHARGED that John Wanamaker bought the postmaster-generalship for four hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Van Alen, the new ambassador to Italy, gets his honor for fifty thousand dollars—another terrible example of the shrinkage of values through the existence of a Democratic administration.

BLOOD WILL TELL.

FAME IS GENEROUS these days. We find in a daily journal a group picture of Charles Mitchell and his interesting family, and Charles looks like a statesman of power who is prepared to knock out oblivion its very self. Mrs. Mitchell is a daughter of Mr. "Pony" Moore, and will doubtless soon enter society and write for the newspapers.

A SUFFERING MUGWUMP.

THE GENTLEMAN who robbed the mint at Philadelphia of several bars of gold offers his crime as proof of the need of civil-service reform. He had held his place forty years, but was in such fear of removal from it that he finally found it advisable to become a thief. There was a robber who said he couldn't help robbing because he had a wart on his neck, but he was not a student of politics.

A CITY IN A DAY.

IN A DAY Perry, in the Cherokee strip, became a city with twenty-five thousand inhabitants and three daily newspapers. If there is anything in the effete east that can begin with that it had better commence early. The record of the cities that attended the building of the railroads of the great west gives nothing to equal it. Those cities, however, went up in a day and down in a day. Will that be the record of the new wonder?

SOONER.

THE CHEROKEE STRIP gives us a new word. The "sooner" man will go into the dictionaries. Doubtless he gets his name from the sooner dog—the dog that would sooner eat than go hungry. Further, he is a corruption of the man who is "too previous," and who generally succeeds in burning his fingers. The word is good enough; but the fellow of the strip is a soulless, lawless wretch who ought to go into his grave.

HAS HONESTY GONE UP?

THE REFORM CLUB of this city has been robbed of two thousand dollars by one of its subordinates. The world has not been so shocked in years. It is darkness from an exploded sun. It is bitterness and gall where only sweetness and light were looked for. The thievish keeper of the contribution-box is in very bad form, but this man ought to be hanged. Really, there must be some more theories and by-laws and resolutions.

THE CRIME OF RELATIONSHIP.

THREE BLACK MEN were killed near New Orleans by a mob because they would not give the whereabouts of a brother suspected of crime. There is a sort of nobility in their devotion to the brother, though perhaps they expected to be killed because he was their brother. One of them was not burned or "shot full of holes," but was merely kicked to death—a softer method of punishment, perhaps. If the black men of the south can stand this, how long can the white men stand it?

GUNPOWDER GOVERNMENTS.

BRAZIL IS LIKELY to have six governments in as many years. Revolutions breed parties, and the last one in is certain to add to the strength of the one that is out. Honors and wealth that are won by bloodshed are usually short-lived, and revolution becomes easier the oftener it occurs. This republic exists through the miracle of justice and common sense involved in the national constitution, and it was once necessary to kill hundreds of thousands of men to preserve that.

He holds three of a kind, but he isn't pleased a bit.

A QUERY.

AT SOROSIS.

"Is there any business of importance to transact at the meeting to-day?"

"No. There are only two actresses to blackball. I wonder why more of them don't send in their applications for membership."

TOO SMART.

"ONE of the greatest sights at the fair was the girl who was showing artificial eggs."

"Limbs, my boy; limbs."

IMITATING THEIR ELDERS.

THE MOTHER—"What are you sitting here in the dark for?"
ETHEL—"We're playing I'm Sister Sue and Jack 's that Mr. Smith that comes to see her."

SARCASM.

WHIPPER—"What do you think of this coat, old man?"
SNAPPER—"Was it made to order?"
WHIPPER—"Certainly it was."
SNAPPER—"Who for?"

SHE WAS PLEASED.

"NOW there's a man for you!" exclaimed Mr. Munn as the conversation turned on the duke of Mudmore.

"Oh, papa, how generous you are!" replied Miss Munn gleefully. "And may I have him for my very own?"

DELICATE FLATTERY.

Miss Uptown (to colored servant who is cleaning the hall)—"Hand me my overshoes and umbrella, please, Jackson."

Jackson—"Yeah 's de umbrill, miss, but yoh obahshoes ain't yeah."

Miss Uptown—"Why, of course they are. Right there by the hat-rack."

Jackson—"Bress my soul, Miss Uptown! Is dem yoh shoes? Well, ef I didn' t'ink dey wuz some little chile's shoes, sho' nuff!"

TO PRESERVE THE UNITIES.

"WHY do you have a colored butler, Binks?"

"To match the mahogany furnishing of my dining-room."

"IN A PET."

NOT UNDER THE RULES.

Applicant—"Then the employés of this department don't have to pass the civil-service examination?"

Government official—"No, indeed. We require bright, active, intelligent men for our work."

A SAFE PROMISE.

Tessie—"Tell me a fairy tale, mamma."

Mamma—"I don't know any, dear. Wait till your father comes home to-night, about midnight; he'll tell one."

FOOLED A TRIFLE.

EXCITED HEN—"Cut-cut-cut, cut-cut, cut-cut-cut-cut-cut!"
FARMER—"Git off'n thar, whoever yer be. The team 's got all it kin haul a'ready."

SENTENCES PASSED BY THE JUDGE.

THE last indulgence spoils the first.

It is the bird with fine feathers that gets plucked.

When you make a feast for swine you must provide troughs for them.

Heredity is announced in the curve of an eyelash or the texture of a finger-nail.

Curs and sycophants partake of their masters' antipathies and follow up their disputes.

There is another sentence than that pronounced by the judge which falls upon the conscience of the accused. KATHRINE GROSJEAN.

EXPLAINING AN EXPLANATION.

THE MOTHER (entering the room unexpectedly)—"Why, my daughter! what does this mean?"
THE DAUGHTER—"Nothing, mamma. Mr. Slickman is just showing me how he proposed to Lizzie Jones last night."

BUT HOW?

CHOLLIE—"Oh, Miss Highup, may I kiss you?"
MISS HIGHUP—"Certainly."

EFFECT OF BROTHERLY LOVE.

"WHAT has transformed Hughes from the amiable, bright fellow he was into the bickering, narrow-minded fellow that he is?"

"Hughes told me yesterday that he belonged to ten secret societies."

BOTH.

Tommy Southside — "Uncle George says there's a brass band of ladies playing in a restaurant in the midway plaisance, papa."

Mr. Southside — "Yes, and there's a band of brass ladies waiting on the tables."

MAKING IT PAY.

IT CAME IN USEFUL.

STRANGER—"What on earth is that?"
NEW YORK FARMER—"Thet's a cyclone-pit."
STRANGER—"But we don't have cyclones in this state, man."
NEW YORK FARMER—"I guess yer don't know my wife, stranger."

The cyclone.

DID YOU EVER

enter a bar-room when you had but fifteen cents in your pocket, thinking you would get a quiet little nip—— ——and find half a dozen or so of your acquaintances assembled, who greet you most cordially?

"TOSSING A COPPER."

TO AN EMPTY D.D.

I DO not like your sermons, sir,
Because for mental meal
I much prefer e'en stringy beef
To very bobbish veal.

NOT CUT OUT FOR IT.

"WHY don't you put Dobbins on your foot-ball team?"

"Physical infirmity."

"Why, he looks to be a strong, well-built, muscular fellow."

"Yes; but he's bald."

PHILOSOPHICAL.

"I NEVER have any kind of luck," said Mawson.

"That's luck enough," said Dawson, who had been having nothing but bad luck.

HIS FEET GAVE HIM AWAY.

MISS JOHNSON (at the masquerade ball)—"I know yer, Mistah Thompson Yer can't fool me."

BIG-FOOT THOMPSON—"Fo' de Lawd's sake! Now how did yo' tell dat? An' me wiv er mask on too."

WHY HE RESIGNED HIS CHARGE.

REVEREND FITS—"Brothers and sisters, before bringing this meeting to a close I desire to say that I have discovered the erring brother who has been purloining umbrellas, and unless the ones lost are brought to my door by to-morrow morning I shall denounce him at our next meeting before the entire congregation."

The Reverend Fits's yard the next morning.

THAT IS FAMILIAR ENOUGH.

"I INFER that Jaysmith is very familiar with history."

"How did you acquire that inference?"

"I heard him speak of Charlemagne as Charlie."

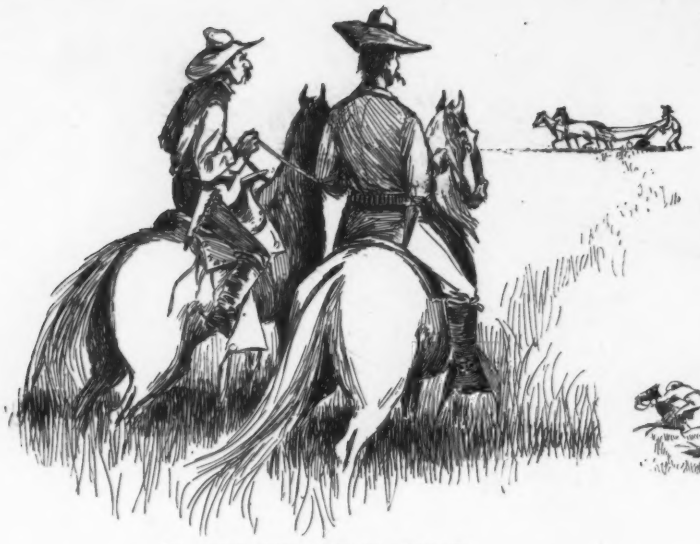
THE POWER OF LETTERS.

THAT England 's mistress of the C's
She often doth aver;
But only think with how much ease
The H's master her.

PERHAPS HE HAD TO.

Miss Faith Cure—"Dear Mr. Longacre, I wish you'd try divine healing for your lumbago."

Mr. Longacre—"Thanks, Miss Faith; but I think I'll stick to my porous-plaster."



IN THE CHEROKEE STRIP.

1. FIRST BOOMER—"There's a dog-goned snoozer jumped my claim already."
SECOND BOOMER—"Has he got a gun on him, Bill?"
FIRST BOOMER—"I don't see any."
SECOND BOOMER—"Well, then, let's run the blamed cuss off."

HIS STATE OF MIND.

"HELLO, Pippy! I just met Bogan. He says his wife 's gone home visiting and he feels like a fish out o' water."

Pippy—"Should think he would—out o' hot water."

ABOVE RUBIES.

Chollie—"Gertrude is highly accomplished. She can speak three languages fluently."

Bertie—"My fiancée can do better than that. She can hold her tongue in seven."

2. THE SNOOZER (as he jerks out the plow-handles)—"Good-mornin', gents!"

ALL THE REQUISITES.

RECRUITING-SERGEANT—"So you think you would make a good soldier, eh?"
APPLICANT—"You bet! I'm de best sprinter in dis ward."

A CRITICISM.

"WHAT do you think of De Koven?"

"He represents the De K of music."

CRUEL.

Tellit—"Since Duxan Drakes got poor his wife's father 's found a way to punish him for his wildness."

Spellit—"How's that?"

Tellit—"Made him a present of a house and lot in Hoboken."

"GOING IN FOR ALL HE IS WORTH."

FIRST LOVE.

AND so you've come back to me, dearest of dears!
The months of your absence have seemed to me years.
But now we're together we never will part;
You're mine and I'm yours. Take your place at my heart.

How pretty you are in your dainty white dress!
Such beauty I did not suspect, I confess.
Of course your fair spirit and heart I well knew,
But, darling, your beauty is external too.

The little gold threads that figure your gown,
Your straight little back and your little gold crown
Are ravishing, dear; and I know that you'll be
The talk of the town till it's jealous of me.

Each thought in your being, each word you would say,
Is yet what I think and just what I'd say;
And so, though you're silent, I hear; and I look
With joy at you, darling—my first printed book.

CHARLES ROBINSON.

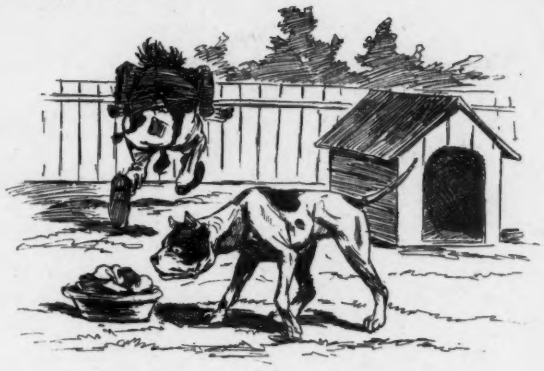
A SHAKY AFFAIR.

THE DAINTY DOG AND THE DIRTY TRAMP.

HUNGRY JOE—"Just my luck! As soon as I find a good meal I'm driven away."



ROVER—"He's had his dirty paws on my dinner.——

THEIR FIRST CLOUD.

THEY had been married less than a month. Their three weeks of a bridal-tour was over and they had been in the little nest which he had provided for his birdie only four days. In those four days a change had come over her. She was not the same happy, blithesome creature she had been. She seemed to be brooding over something—a hidden sorrow which she showed no inclination to reveal to him. What could it be? He determined to ask her—to assert his rights—to command her to divulge her secret if necessary. One evening he led her to the sofa, placed her on his knee, took her hands in his and said solemnly,

"Carrie."

"Yes, Edwin."

"You have something on your mind?"

She hung her head.

"I want to know what it is?"

She answered not.

"Wives should have no secrets from their husbands."

She began to sob. This was dreadful. What could be the trouble?

"Carrie, it is my right to know what is burdening your mind," he went on hoarsely.

"Oh, Edwin, you will despise me!"

"What is it, Carrie?"

"Oh, I can't tell you!"

——Ugh! I can't stomach it now."

"But you must. I command you!"

"Why—why"——

"Well, what is it?" he demanded impatiently, as she paused.

"Must I tell?"

"You must," replied Edwin with a great lump in his throat.

"Will you promise not to despise me or send me home to mamma?"

"I make no promises until I hear your story," said Edwin sternly. "Go on."

"Why," sobbed the little woman, "I've got awfully hungry for a mess of onions, and I was wondering if you'd ever love me any more if I cooked some?"

"Just what I've been pining for myself!" cried Edwin. "Let's have some beefsteak smothered with onions for dinner to-night."

Which they did, and their first cloud rolled serenely by. WILLIAM HENRY SIVITER.

FOOTING HIS BILL.

THE BARGAIN FAD.

"DOESN'T it cost you Chicago women a good deal of money, first and last, for your divorces?"

"Oh, no; not if you take advantage of the bargain-days."

A PLEA FOR THE QUATRAIN.

THESE days we live are busy times,
That teach naught but compressing;
The thought that won't go in four rhymes
Is never worth expressing.

HIS DELICATE SATIRE.

Park-phaeton driver (crushingly, to swell who is driving with lady and has grazed his wheel)—"Hadn't you better let the lady drive?"

"A PREPARATION FOR THE SKIN."

"Friend, this vulgar display of diamonds, coupled with a public show of thy besetting sin, tends to show a very worldly life. If thee would look to brethren of the cloth for example it would avail thee much."

(In the tunnel.) "Here's lookin' at yer, deacon!"

N SC OL OF CRIME.

"DO YOU see anyt'ings ohf dot poy Solomon ohf mine day-times?" asked Mr. Goldgrabber of the friendly cop the other morning as he swept off the sidewalk in front of his store. "No? I didn't know but maype you seen him somevheres. He don'd come home all day. He ain'd doin' noding bud loafing now fur six veeks. He lefd dot butcher-shtore pecause he say it vas dirdy, und he left dot corset-shtore pecause he learn noding dere, he say; und he left dot cigar-shtore pecause he say dere no money in dot, he say; und he say he vant to go into peesniss fur himself; but vhat do he know aboud peesniss, und me here fur dwendy-four years und geddin' stug righd along? I don'd know vhat to do mit dot poy. His mudder peen feedin' him righd along fur six months fur noding, und he geds a glean bair ohf socks efery veek. Ain'd dot a bicnic fur a young man, hey? No vonder he don'd vant to vork." And Mr. Goldgrabber calculated the supposititious profit providing each man in the train of rapid-transiters rushing by overhead would stop and buy a shirt.

CURE FOR THE MALADY.

Patient—"I say, doc, when do you think I'll be out of this?"

Doctor—"Well, I can cure you at once for cash or in a week for thirty days."

FOOT-BALL TERM.
"Almost a touch-down."

A GOOD-ENOUGH REASON.

"THE doctor examined me and reported that I was all right, but the company refused to issue a policy upon my life."

"What do the idiots object to?" cried his wife indignantly.

"They are not idiots, my dear. They have discovered that a trolley-car line runs through our street."

A TEA-TABLE PHILOSOPHER.

Bobby (who has accidentally upset the dish of apple-sauce)—"Now, isn't that lucky!"

Mamma—"What do you mean, you naughty boy?"

Bobby—"Lucky I don't like apple-sauce."

MITIGATING HIS GRIEF.

"WHAT are you crying for, Bobby?" said Willie Cawker to a little playmate.

"I've lost a big silver dollar that Uncle Frank gave me. Boo-hoo!"

"Pooh! I wouldn't worry about that. There's only fifty-five cents' worth of silver in the coin anyhow."

RETRIBUTION.

THE poet wrote some lines on time, but oh,
They did not sell. His eyes with tears were dim;
His face shows many signs of care, and so
It seems that time has placed its lines on him.

VENETIAN PROVERB.

IT IS better to be master of a small boat than captain of a vessel.

WATERED STOCK.

HE—"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"

REVISED.

SHE—"I am going to slap your face, you impudent would-be masher from New York!" she said.

THE SHUT-EYE TRAIN.

Come, my little one, with me;
There are wondrous sights to see
As the evening shadows fall.
In your pretty cap and gown,
Don't detain
The Shut-eye train.
"Ting-a-ling!" the bell it goeth;
"Toot, toot!" the whistle bloweth,
And we hear the warning call,
"All aboard for Shut-eye town!"

Over hill and over plain
Soon will speed the Shut-eye train.
Through the blue where bloom the stars
And the mother-moon looks down
We'll away
To land of fay.
Oh, the sights that we shall see there!
Come, my little one, with me there;
'Tis a goodly train of cars.
All aboard for Shut-eye town!

Swifter than a wild bird's flight
Through the realms of fleecy light
We shall speed and speed away.
Let the night in envy frown;
What care we
How wroth she be?
To the Balow-land above us,
To the Balow-folk who love us,
Let us hasten while we may—
All aboard for Shut-eye town!

Shut-eye town is passing fair;
Golden dreams await us there.
We shall dream those dreams, my dear,
Till the mother-moon goes down.
See unfold
Delights untold;
And in those mysterious places
We shall see beloved faces
And beloved voices hear
In the grace of Shut-eye town.

Heavy are your eyes, my sweet;
Weary are your little feet.
Nestle closer up to me
In your pretty cap and gown.
Don't detain
The Shut-eye train.
"Ting-a-ling!" the bell it goeth;
"Toot, toot!" the whistle bloweth.
Oh, the sights that we shall see!
All aboard for Shut-eye town!

NURSING MOTHERS

Will find Burnham's Clam Bouillon better than any tonic made. It will increase the flow of milk and build up the tissues far better than extract of beef, or any other known remedy. It has been in use in the Maternity Hospitals of New York City and Brooklyn for years and we have testimonials from the resident physicians of those institutions commending it in the highest terms.

STRONG TESTIMONY.

What the state chemist of Connecticut says of Heublein's Private Stock whisky.

Office of W. T. CUTTER, state chemist of Connecticut, EAST LYME, CONN., Oct. 11, 1891.

Messrs. G. F. Heublein & Bro., Hartford, Conn. Gentlemen—I have made an analysis of your whisky marked "private stock" and find it free from any injurious or deleterious substances. Its remarkably fine aroma and mellowness are not the result of mechanical treatment, but imparted by its age and purity. It it free from fusil-oil, and is absolutely pure. In 1861, while residing in Kentucky, a letter was addressed to me by Drs. Valentine Mott Willard Parker, James R. Wood, Austin Flint, sr., James C. Hutchinson, Alfred C. Post, and other eminent medical gentlemen, asking me if I would furnish a pure article of whisky for the use of the sick. The G. F. Heublein & Bro. brand of whisky, "private stock," fully meets the above requirements, and I recommend it to public favor. Yours very truly,

WM. T. CUTTER, Connecticut state chemist.
